A Houston Business Journal article mentions the recent lease renewal for our firm's long-term headquarters at Two Allen Center, as well as planned renovations to create a collaborative and functional space for the way people work today. The approximately $6 million project will include community amenities and will bring more natural light into the space.

"The recent Allen Center campus renovations and added amenities created an inviting work environment for our attorneys, staff and visitors," said John Meredith, COO for Chamberlain Hrdlicka. "With additional improvements to our office space, we want to further enrich our entire employees' experience and create a community space that takes our culture of collaboration and excellence to the next level."

Cushman and Wakefield's Tim Relyea, David Guion and David Endelman represented Chamberlain Hrdlicka, while CBRE's Harkins, Hodges and Ochoa again represented Brookfield Properties.
