Larry Campagna featured in Best Lawyers’ Purely Pure Voting: Authenticity and Trust Through Decades of Tradition

February 10, 2023

In a January 19, 2023 article in Best Lawyers®, Managing Shareholder Larry Campagna discusses how trust and peer-review feedback are pivotal to building authentic relationships with colleagues in the legal industry in an interview with Best Lawyers® CEO Phillip Greer.

“It’s theoretically possible to succeed in life on your own, but all of us actually rely on the help and relationships we have with others throughout our careers,” said Campagna. He further explained that by intentionally seeking and giving feedback it supports growth within not only his professional career, but also in his professional relationships.

“I find constructive criticism and feedback important for my own growth,” said Campagna. “So, if I believe that, then I ought to be willing to participate in peer-review programs so that others can learn, sometimes anonymously, what I think of them and [they] can learn from what the public and their peers have to say about the way they practice and the person that they are. I think it’s a best practice to periodically discuss with others, whether their clients or friends or colleagues, what we’ve been doing with them or for them lately and ask for their comments.”
