William Montgomery ("Bill") is a retired shareholder in the Commercial Real Estate Practice Group from the Atlanta, Georgia office of the Firm. His real estate experience reflected the growth, evolution and complexity of the dynamic metro Atlanta and southeastern United States real estate markets.

Mr. Montgomery represented developers, owners, lenders and investors in connection with the acquisition, disposition, development, financing and leasing of a variety of real estate assets. Such projects included multi-use developments, residential subdivisions including several at environmentally sensitive locations, apartment complexes, office developments including high-rise, low-rise and medical office projects, retail developments, industrial and manufacturing facilities and hotel and resort developments. He also represented MetLife Insurance Company in a variety of agrifinance transactions primarily located in middle and South Georgia involving large farming operations, timber operations and cotton gins.

During a depressed real estate economy, he worked with the firm's bankruptcy practice group to represent both developers and lenders, in and out of bankruptcy reorganization proceedings in a variety of distressed real estate related transactions. Those involved complex multi-state, multi-asset, multi-creditor credit facilities and loans secured by single commercial projects. He worked to restructure senior debt, mezzanine credits, construction and acquisition and development loans, to modify loan terms and collateral, to negotiate and prepare forbearance agreements, assignments of equity interests in lieu of foreclosure, deeds in lieu of foreclosure, asset reconveyances and to purchase and sell on a discounted basis debt instruments.
