

Virtual Event: Minimizing Cybersecurity Risks for Remote Working

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Foster Swift Business & Tax Law News

December 1, 2020

LANSING, Mich. —With more employees working remotely for the foreseeable future, businesses are seeing a resulting increase in spoofing and other attempts by hackers to access confidential and valuable information. Does your business have the proper protection policies and procedures in place? Join Foster Swift for a virtual training session.

Moderated by Patricia Scott, learn from attorneys Robert Hamor and Taylor Gast on ways to minimize risk and avoid disaster as more of your employees work remotely. This virtual discussion will touch on the recent rise in spoofing and other computer hacking attempts, along with strategies to protect your business and employees.

Details of the event are below:

- What: Webinar on Minimizing Cybersecurity Risks for Remote Working
- When: Thursday, December 10 from 12:00-1:00 p.m.
- Cost: Free
- Registration: No longer available

ATTORNEYS

Taylor A. Gast

Robert A. Hamor

PRACTICE AREAS

Business Law

Coronavirus Pandemic/Crisis
Support Task Force

Cybersecurity and Data Privacy

Finance, Real Estate & Bankruptcy
Law